Pharmaceutical industry is growing by leaps and bounds and the market is flooded with a variety of drugs.

Some innovative drugs like monoclonal antibodies which specifically target the concerned tissues are a boon in the treatment of cancer and some other diseases.

The treatment of terminally ill patients is a major concern in the present times. How best we can keep the life of terminally ill patients better is the aim of health care professionals.

In view of the antibiotic resistance developed by various organisms and also new antibiotic entry has come down in the market, it is challenging for the medical professionals to treat the infectious diseases.

Some drugs are being used abundantly without much scientific evidence and real benefit to the patients like antioxidants, cognitive enhancers. Hence there is need for discussion.

In view of the above considerations we planned to conduct a C M E on RECENT TRENDS IN PHARMACOTHERAPY which will be beneficial for all medical professionals.
